Question: What terrain? Just road or does it go in grass, rocks, etc?

Answer: My son rides this On the grass and sidewalks. We haven't tried gravel so not sure about that. I have to say I think it's holding up well and my son likes it. He's 9.

The T851 Offroad seems to be a great board so far. It is well built and looks very nice. There are a few different safety features, but I really like being able to adjust the speed limit while learning. It's also pretty neat that the LEDs act as turn signals, that's a nice touch.

It has been very easy for my 13, 11, and 9 year old to use. After a couple of minutes you would think they are pros.

The offroad capabilities are very nice. My son has been driving through the yard both up and down hills and the grass & dirt don't seem to be any problem.

We were very surprised with the bluetooth speaker. It has a very nice rich sound to it and seems just as good of quality as the board itself.

The battery life and charging times seem to be right on par with what is promised. An hour and a half to

I am surprised how well this works off-road. My 6yo soon loves cruising all over the driveway as well as dirt trails around the house. He even rode around at a local park where the grass was very bumpy with gophers.

The app could use some work

★★★★☆ Good but not 10mph
Reviewed in the United States on December 25, 2019

They are great but the info on amazon is incorrect. It says 10mph max speed. The manual that comes with it clearly states 7.5mph. That needs to be fixed. That is the main reason I bought this brand was for the speed as they are used for carts. They are slower than our other boards that have a max speed of 7.5.
